P_RO_EUROPA

– Scientific Research, Growth, Future –

This event is an opportunity for a real exchange of ideas and experience, at both national and international level, on a topic of major interest concerning a better contribution of the R&D system in solving problems that can support the development of labour market and social protection systems in the new context of Europe 2020.

Through the experience, ideas and solutions presented by the Conference participants, together we can contribute to a better connection of the research system to the requirements of the Romanian society, by the common effort necessary to achieve ambitious European targets for 2020.

The organizers consider that this event will have positive implications on stimulating innovation and increasing awareness of the economic environment on the importance of applying the results of scientific research and technologic development.

Taking all this into consideration, we invite colleagues from research institutes, universities, social partners and the economic environment to attend the Conference and support our scientific event.

We are looking forward for your participation!
